ROYAL GLOBAL UNIVERSITY

From the Desk of the Chancellor

It gives me immense pleasure to know that a new issue of the RGU Newsletter is coming up featuring a rich compilation of events, activities, and achievements that took place during the months of May, June, and July.

From Galileo, Einstein, to Steve Jobs, men of merit and effort have harped on inventions and creations out of the inherent urge that drives one to their goal. The Assam Royal Global University has been an outcome of this urge to which we are responding so as to bring to the North-East academic facilities of global standards. The Assam Royal Global University is the manifestation of a vision—to provide the North-East region with academic facilities of global standards. This vision continues to take shape through consistent commitment, innovation, and collaboration.

I must acknowledge that our students have always been my greatest strength and inspiration in this journey. Today, RGU proudly houses over 24 schools offering a wide range of undergraduate, postgraduate, diploma, and doctoral programs. These include disciplines such as Engineering, Business Management, Commerce, Architecture, Design, Planning, Fashion, Fine Arts, Pure Sciences, Information Technology, Life Sciences, Biosciences, Environmental and Earth Sciences, Communication and Media, Behavioral and Allied Sciences, Languages, Humanities and Social Sciences, Liberal Arts, Library Sciences, Law and Administration, Hotel Management, Travel and Tourism Management, Pharmacy, Nursing, Medical and Allied Sciences, among others.

We remain steadfast in our pledge to provide high-quality, comprehensive, and industry-ready education. At RGU, we are committed not only to academic excellence but also to nurturing socially responsible, value-driven individuals ready to contribute meaningfully to the world.

I extend my heartfelt congratulations to the editorial team for their dedicated efforts in bringing out this informative and engaging edition.

Dr. A. K. Pansari

Message from the Vice Chancellor

I am delighted that the RGU Newsletter is being published this month capturing the developments of the University during the last three months. These developments of RGU highlight the achievements of our students, faculty members and the non-teaching staff that reflect our mandates for achieving excellence in academics, research and innovations, public and community engagements. RGU is in the forefront spearheading the effective implementation of the national education policy in the northeast. We have reoriented the architecture of our curricular framework, governance mechanisms and collaborative engagements in conformation with the emerging necessities of higher education.

Our students are enabled to navigate in an ecosystem with academic flexibility, purpose of intellectual pursuit and effective pedagogy, which not only make them academically qualified, and professionally competent, but also groom them as citizens with commitment and social responsibility. Establishment of the Centre for Multidisciplinary Studies and Research with focus on multi-, inter-, and transdisciplinary research, innovative pedagogy, and policy research is a move in strengthening our approach in holistic education and innovative research. RGU's abiding emphasis on enhancing societal efficiency is evident from our education which is moored in the philosophy of liberal art education.

Higher education is going through transformative phases like never before. There are paradigm shifts in perspective views and perceptions on outcome, growth and excellence in the multiple dimensions of the educational landscape. RGU is conscious of the challenges and the opportunities coming in the wake.

I congratulate the editorial team for bringing out the Newsletter which shall mirror RGU's endeavors and achievements, commitments and responsibilities and our contributions to nation building.

Later in the day, a certificate presentation ceremony was held, led by Mr. Wang Changming, Chairman of the Executive Board, and Dr. Chanidapa Noonualwutthiwong.

JNU VC Prof. Santishree Pandit addresses students of RGU

"Intelligence has become artificial, but stupidity is original. Machines are learning, humans are serving. Students, please don't lose your talent to read, to write and to think independently. ChatGPT and AI dependence is making slaves. I am not against the use of technology, but your mind is far superior to technology."

This was stated by Prof. Santishree Pandit, Vice Chancellor, JNU New Delhi while addressing students and faculty members at Assam Royal Global University (RGU) on 28th May 2025. The JNU Vice Chancellor also planted a sapling as well as visited the university Museum and Central Sophisticated Instrumentation at the university campus.

Appreciating unity amidst diversity, Prof Santishree Pandit said, "Though the Assam Royal Global University is very young compared to JNU which is in its 57th year, it has a very vast trajectory from KG to PG and PhD, a university that mentors and holds students very well. RGU stands as one of the leading private universities in Eastern India, serving the region with distinction—an aspect of great significance to the Government of India, especially in the context of the Act East Policy. I commend RGU for its vision and mission in delivering quality higher education to the students of this region".

While interacting with students regarding the use of AI, she said, "Use technology as an instrument, not as a master, because finally human being should be known for original critical thinking. Diversity is important for universities like RGU, and the celebration of diversity is what leads to unity. I am against uniformity, because it makes you dull whereas unity is like colours of the rainbow. We need to bring the local to the national and connect it to the global." Students must understand this. Learn from your teacher, nothing can replace the classroom, she further said.

Ahir Bhairav: Musical Gathering for Cultural Enrichment

On 26th June 2025, RGU hosted a vibrant and enriching cultural gathering titled "Ahir Bhairav".
